financial-aid-scams. The FTC cautions the use of scholarship service agencies that say:

- “The scholarship is guaranteed or your money back.”
- “You can’t get this information anywhere else.”
- “I just need your credit card or bank account number to hold this scholarship.”
- “We’ll do all the work. You just pay a processing fee.”
- “The scholarship will cost some money.”
- “You’ve been selected by a ‘national foundation’ to receive a scholarship” or “You’re a finalist” in a contest you never entered.

If you believe you have been the victim of scholarship fraud, wish to file a complaint, or want more information, call 1(877) 382-4357 or see <https://consumer.ftc.gov/articles/how-avoid-scholarship-and-financial-aid-scams>. Also, the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (CFPB) web site contains important information for students and parents about student loan debt relief scams. The CFPB warns students at <https://www.consumerfinance.gov/about-us/newsroom/consumer-advisory-student-loan-debt-relief-companies-may-cost-you-thousands-of-dollars-and-drive-you-further-into-debt/>.

To avoid paying third-party or private companies that provide debt relief based on the following warning signs:

- Pressure to pay high up-front fees
- Promises of fast loan forgiveness or debt cancellation
- Demands that you sign a “third party authorization”
- Requests for your Federal Student Aid PIN

If you believe you have been the victim of student loan debt relief fraud, wish to file a complaint, or want more information, call 1(855) 411-2372 or see <https://www.consumerfinance.gov/complaint/>.

ELECTRONIC COMMUNICATION

In accordance with University of Georgia policy (https://ugamail.uga.edu/student_email/), every student is required to have an email address to which official University communications can be sent. Students may contact the Office of Student Financial Aid (OSFA) using the contact information below if they want to receive paper communication from OSFA.

STUDENT TUITION AND TRANSPARENCY SYSTEM (STATS) AND EARNINGS ACCOUNTABILITY

The Student Tuition and Transparency System (STATS) and Earnings Accountability framework is a federal accountability system established by the U.S. Department of Education to evaluate whether postsecondary education programs provide graduates with sufficient earnings outcomes relative to comparable education levels. Under the rule, undergraduate programs must demonstrate that graduates typically earn more than individuals with only a high school diploma, while graduate programs must show earnings above those of bachelor's degree holders to maintain eligibility for federal Direct Loan funding. Programs that repeatedly fail these earnings benchmarks risk losing access to federal student aid programs, reinforcing institutional accountability for student return on investment. For additional information contact the Office of Student Financial Aid, Holmes Hunter Academic Building, Room 312, 101 Herty Drive, Athens, Georgia 30602; phone (706) 542-6147; or at <https://osfa.uga.edu/>.
